

President Barack Obama’s April 2010 Forecast

The month of April starts off with the Direct Energy Planet Neptune in “negative” alignment to President Obama’s natal Uranus. Not something new. On December 25, 2008, just after the Election and before Barack Obama was to be sworn in as President, a significant change took place in his astrological chart. Transiting Neptune moved to within a 3-degree “negative” orb of his natal Uranus. And this planet is still within the 3-degree “negative” orb of his natal Uranus.

The very nature of Neptune creates times of uncertainty, situations that are never understood or clear, where facts are distorted and misrepresented. The nature of Neptune tends toward impracticality, or a vision of what you want to happen, but the vision is not based on fact or verity. A “negative” Uranus creates a person that will use strong-willed tactics to get his objectives and will not take counsel.

Neptune “negative” Uranus brings on unknown situations which pose a threat because they are secretive, persuasive, and deceptive in origin, the motives are never clear and the outcomes are always in doubt.

The first twelve days of April, President Obama will use his persuasive manner trying to create a vision and promote his own philosophic views in an effort to regain acceptance. This will be hard to accomplish since the majority of Americans feels that he has betrayed them. However his chart shows purposeful actions, speeches, and a determined and directed effort toward accomplishment. His character is more focused on what he wants to achieve and you can expect him to be decisive and resolute in his actions.

April 17-23, 2010 is a time during this month when he should just lay low. His emotions will be poorly directed basing all of his conclusions on his feelings rather than fact or reality. He will experience disorder and confusion in his personal life which he just ignores, hoping that it will just go away or something will come along to make it right. Decisions and resolutions will be difficult to make under this influence. Relationships with other countries will be generally a mess, and even scandals or indiscreet situations caused by his behavior are center front. This influence will make him intolerant of other people’s views or beliefs, makes him very opinionated and boosts his self-importance. The desire to accomplish too quickly, coupled with his overconfident nature without planning, forethought or experience to accomplish will cause him problems.
